The Grade 7 Chapel Period

We all know that the school-wide talent show is over which was titled "The Greatest Show". Very few from the Middle School Section were chosen to present during that day. It was a pity that they were not able to share their talents with the rest of the school. Little did we know, before the school even decided to bring the talent show back, the grade 7 homeroom teachers already planned to have their own mini talent show presentation for their chapel.

The show included various items including instrumental numbers, dancing, a DJ show, a ballet performance, and a patty-cake show. It was amazing! The students showed a hidden part of their life. Each day that we see them, we only know that they can excel in their academics, but after that day we will look at them differently.

If not for the chapel of the grade 7, these magnificent talents would still be kept secret until now.

I appreciate that they have considered bringing back the school-wide talent show.

Communication with the parents is very important for the school to convey every student's performance in the class. Teachers will be able to personally talk and inform whether a student is meeting the standard or is needing support.

October 31 to November 2, 2018 is scheduled for the RAIS parent-teacher conferences. The school as a whole was busy preparing for it. The registrar with the leadership of Mrs. Nok had the Report Cards ready for distribution. These will be sent to each homeroom teacher, and then they will be given to the parents the moment they come and visit the class.

A survey form is also ready to be filled in for the school to know about what parents think about the services the institution is giving. This is a good tool to know their thoughts, and it will be used as one of the bases in maintaining or improving the school as a whole.

I believe parents are happy to meet the teachers of their children, receive the report cards, address issues, and listen to recommendations and support strategies.

Drama Class Puppet Show

By Mrs. Norina Joy Ponce- Balaba

Puppets have long been a part of theater throughout the world. Puppets are as diverse as the art of puppetry itself, ranging from elaborate, costumed characters, to a few dabs of paint on a puppeteer's hand.

The drama students are preparing themselves to make a puppetry script, to design their own puppet theater set, and to perform a puppet show on November 8, 2018 in their respective drama classes. They will be performing with different types of puppets such as hand, rod, and shadow puppets.

The drama class are so excited to present themselves as puppeteers, and they are trying their best to generate intensive and whimsical puppet plays. This classroom-based performance allows students to demonstrate versatility behind the great challenges and opportunities in the whole process.

Kudos to all the grade 11 and 12 drama students!
